

Fire Razes Church at Charleston

CHARLESTON - The Church of the Nazarene, a large brick structure on the corner of Center and Pecan streets, was destroyed by fire this morning.

The fire department was called at 9:25 a.m. after the Rev. William York left his study, his wife noticed smoke coming from the building.

The church had a new furnace installed two years ago. The pastor used a small space heater on occasions to heat his office. It was not determined immediately how the fire started. The church parsonage is next door. The attic and one side of the parsonage were damaged. A second building near the church also was damaged by the heat.

The church soon was enveloped in flames. At 11 a.m. the roof fell in. The fire was still burning at noon.

The brick structure was built in 1932.

The vehicle was locked. Investigating policeman Thurman Burns reported a hole was found in the rubber lining above the car door.

In other activity, Franklin Johnson, 349 School street, reported to police that someone took the coil wire from his automobile while it was parked at his residence during the night.

An undetermined amount of change was reported taken from two vending machines Friday night or early today at the Robinson Wholesale Building Supply Co., police reported. No signs of entry to the building were visible. Investigating policeman Jack C. Patterson reported.

Michael Jones, 724 Good Hope, was charged at 7:30 a.m. today with operating a motor vehicle with no city auto license.

Tavern Fire Kills 12

MOBERLY, Mo. (AP) - Witnesses say a man entered a crowded tavern Friday, sloshed gasoline around, threw a lit match and ran out. Twelve persons were killed in a frantic attempt to escape the blast of flame.

Clifford Faltzone, Randolph County prosecutor, said a murder charge would be lodged against William Edward Coleman, 36, an ex-convict who police said gave himself up at headquarters after the fire.

Police said the 12 victims piled up at the back door, which they couldn't open. Four persons—two men, a woman and her baby—got out the front door.

"I simply don't understand it," moaned the bewildered proprietor, Ray Curtis, who opened the small tavern just a week ago. "I thought Coleman was my friend."

In fact, Curtis said, Coleman helped clean up the place for the opening.

On the back bar was a list of 10 names of persons who could not be served in the tavern as patrons under Missouri law, Curtis said. All 10 are ex-convicts, and the law does not permit them to loiter in places serving liquor or beer.

Coleman's name was on the list, Curtis said, but Coleman knew it and understood why he couldn't be a patron.

The tavern was on the first floor of a building housing the old three-story, 30-room Randolph Hotel. The flames burned out the interior of the tavern and ruined eight hotel rooms above it.

Mrs. Vivian McSparren, who was sitting near the front of the bar, told fire Chief LeRoy Willis that a man walked in carrying a five-gallon bucket of liquid.

"He walked to the middle of the tavern and started sloshing it around," Mrs. McSparren said. "He made a swinging arc, throwing the liquid all over the tavern. Then he threw a match into it and ran out."

Virgil Hill, 46, said he was on a stool next to Mrs. McSparren.

Symington Sees Great Noranda Potential

NEW MADRID -- U. S. Sen. Stuart Symington told a meeting here that he considered the decision of the Noranda Aluminum Company to locate processing plant here to be "one of the most significant industrial development potentials in many years."

He spoke by telephone from Washington to the session at the Bank of New Madrid.

"Senator Symington and his staff have been most helpful in obtaining this plant for Missouri," Sam Hunter Jr. told the gathering of company, engineering firm and government representatives preparing plans for the site. "Certainly after designing the power plant, ask the personal efforts to encourage Noranda to move its facilities to boundaries, distribution and plant sites needed to design the industrial park for the plant."

and his friend, Charles Buckler, 70. He said the blast caused the front door to stick.

"I grabbed the woman who had a baby about two years old with her, and we pushed against the door and finally managed to open it," Hill said. "Buck followed us out and we ran into the street."

Firemen said the back door opened inward and the victims apparently jammed up against it before it could be pulled open. The fire chief said it took only five minutes to get the blaze under control and it was out in 45 minutes.

Prosecutor Faltzone said Coleman had a long criminal record. He started when he was 14 years old. He served terms in the state training school for boys, the state reformatory and the state prison for delinquency, car theft, felonious assault, burglary and forgery.

The police chief said Coleman had been working steadily as a laborer the last two years.

"I can't understand this," Curtis said. "That's what really shakes me up. The place has been known as a rough place, and I took it in hopes I could clean it up and make it work. I figured that in four or five months of slow business I could convince people that it was being run properly and business would pick up."

Curtis said he left the bartender, Mrs. Geraldine Settles, 53, in charge Friday afternoon while he went to a lumberyard to study plans for a house "my wife and I had been figuring on until this."

About two hours later, at the Eagles Lodge, he got a call about the fire.

"All those who died were good personal friends of mine," he said. "I couldn't believe it. That first call I got, the woman said, 'Your place is on fire and they've already brought out nine bodies.'"

Police Chief Wesley Slavens refused to disclose anything Coleman might have said.

"All I'm going to say is that ne came in here and gave him self up," Slavens said.

Officers said Coleman escaped three times from the county jail in Huntsville, four times from the training school at Booneville, and once from the reformatory.

The list of dead:

1. Mrs. Geraldine Settles, 53, Moberly, the bartender.
2. Mrs. Ella Derboven, 57, Moberly.
3. Mrs. Ruby Derboven, 33, Huntsville.
4. George Dougherty, 55, Renick, Mo.

Hung Jury in 15-Year-Old's Murder Trial

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) - An all-male jury failed to reach a verdict Friday night in the first-degree murder trial of 15-year-old Robert Eugene Sinderson.

The youth, being tried as an adult, was charged with the slaying of Merrill Nichols, 64, a clerk at a Joplin, Mo., all-night grocery March 3, 1967.

Neil Fugate, foreman of the jury, said the final vote after four attempts ended with a 7-5 decision. All jurors indicated there wasn't any chance of altering the final judgments.

The decision ended four days of heated testimony on both sides.

A 23-year-old Gordonville man, Roy Kranawetter, is charged with leaving the scene of traffic accidents.

He is being held in the city jail.

Police at 1 a.m. today picked up the Gordonville youth after a 1967 Pontiac, driven by Dwayne Boley, 40, Vanduser, was struck by another car, causing the Boley car to leave on highway 61, 10 miles north of Sikeston.

Kranawetter was driving a 1965 Plymouth.

At 12:30 a.m. on route W, six miles west of Oran, a 1962 Chevrolet driven by Charles Glueck, 16, Chaffee was crowded off the road before it collided with another car which Kranawetter was accused of driving. A flat tire on a 1965 GMC trailer truck, driven by Bud L. Isbell, 44, Kennett, on Inter-

Parma Asks Withdrawal From District

NEW MADRID -- A delegation from Parma R-3 school district presented the secretary of the New Madrid board of education Sam Bodine with a petition Friday requesting the Parma district be left out of the reorganization plan.

The petition states that its signers are residents of the Parma school district who are opposed to their school district being included in the proposed six-district school district R-3 in New Madrid county.

The petition is signed by 625 persons representing about 90 per cent of the voters in the district. W. B. Morgan, Parma, said.

Morgan and a small delegation representing the Parma district delivered the petition to Bodine. At the time they also presented him with a letter drafted from an Aug. 14 meeting of the school board in Parma. The meeting was attended by New Madrid political leader J. V. Conrad.

The letter states: "The Parma School Board met Aug. 14, 1967, and unanimously voted to request that the boundaries of the Parma Reorganized School District No. 3 be excluded from the county reorganization plan."

"J. V. Conrad, in his discussion of the plan, made the statement that any school requesting it would be omitted."

"Our district is unique from the other school districts in the county in that almost 50 per cent of the district is in Stoddard county, and, therefore, the plan is very unpopular in our area."

"It is also, felt by the board of education that we have from two to five years before the state reorganizes school districts into larger educational centers, and that more time should be given to a more detailed study of the plan as well as give schools a chance to decide for themselves which education center would better fit the needs of the people in the school district."

Letters Pour in on Music Teacher, 96

By LEO SCHADE

CHARLESTON -- Miss Kate Boone, the 96-year-old blind music teacher, basks in the warmth of a flood of letters from news spread across the nation about her life and career.

Since the Associated Press distributed a story in January about the aged woman, who thinks she may be the country's oldest music teacher, she has received more than 100 letters. The correspondence came from every state except Alaska.

Her place in the limelight gave especial significance to Valentine's Day when many former students as well her 17 present voice students remembered her with greetings.

She spends from 35 to 45 minutes with each of her students every week.

"The Associated Press must be a powerful media," she said. An error in the story was responsible for some of the outpouring of letters. People inquired about her father, the late Judge William Felton Boone, whose middle name was incorrectly spelled "Fenton" in the story.

Most of the letters were about her ancestry. She is a descendant of Kentucky Frontiersman Daniel Boone. The others congratulated her on her long musical career.

Charleston friends, Mrs. Robert Latimer and Mrs. Robert DeLaney and others, read the letters to her and answered them. Miss Boone said that she mailed "a batch" of letters to her niece, Mrs. Paul Reese in Baton Rouge, La., who will answer them.

The aged woman, a soprano, says that the greatest satisfaction of her 81 years as a music teacher has been in observing "the development of my voice and piano pupils."

"I find that the young people of today are more interested in music because they have more advantages than the children many years ago."

Music is a universal language. It is broadening and requires a

Suspect Held Industrial Growth Praised For Mystery Call Slayings

GAFFNEY, S. C. (AP) - A 31-year-old textile worker was held at the State Department of Corrections in Columbia today, charged with the slaying of a teen-age girl. Police said he also would be charged in the strangling of another teen-age girl and a young woman.

Lee Roy Martin of Gaffney was arrested Friday at the mill where he works. He was charged with the murder of Opal Dianne Buckson, 15, whose nude body was found covered with brush in a wooded rural area earlier Friday.

The girl was abducted at a school bus stop Tuesday morning. L. C. L. McKinnon of the State Law Enforcement Division said Martin also will be charged with the slaying of Mrs. Nancy Carol Parris, 20, and Nancy Christine Rinehart, 14, both of Gaffney.

Their nude, strangled bodies were found Feb. 8.

"I am satisfied he is the same man who killed the other two women," McKinnon said.

Managing Editor Bill Gibbons of the Gaffney Ledger was directed to the two bodies by an anonymous caller. The caller phoned a second time, saying he was a "psycho and might kill again." Residents lived in a state of fear after the calls.

The morning after the second call Miss Buckson, a Negro, was abducted. Martin is white, as were the two other victims.

Miss Buckson was stabbed twice in addition to being strangled. Officers said she apparently was killed shortly after the abduction.

The anonymous caller also mentioned the strangulation death last May of Mrs. Annie Lucille Dedmond, 34, of Forest City, N.C. Her husband, Roger Z. Dedmond, 27, was convicted of manslaughter and is serving an 18-year term.

Study Supports Highway From K.C. to Bootheel

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) - A highway study recommending construction of nearly 2,000 miles of road primarily in a four-state area at a cost of $777.11 million was presented Friday to the Ozark Regional Commission.

Most of the construction would be done in Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

The report recommended a highway connecting the Kansas City area and Shreveport, La. Plans were included for building the northern part of the road in either Kansas or Missouri.

Other roads would be built linking Harrisonville, Mo., and Conway, Ark.; Columbia, Mo., and Memphis, Tenn.; and Kansas City, Mo., and Memphis.

Also recommended was a road connecting Kansas City, Mo., and the southeast part of the state.

A road between northeastern Oklahoma and the Dallas-Fort Worth area also was recommended.

Another recommended highway would link Purcell, Okla., and the proposed route between Kansas City and Louisiana. It would become a part of a Denver-New Orleans route.

A road also would be built from Wichita to the highway between Kansas City and Louisiana.

The study, conducted by E. S. Preston and Associates, Columbus, Ohio, at a cost of $49,000, also recommended shorter routes to provide access to existing and future industrial and recreational areas.

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Steps are being taken to appoint Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner to a federal judgeship, according to Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

The White House has acknowledged Illinois Democrats' endorsement of Kerner for the post, Rostenkowski said, and FBI clearance has been asked.

There were reports Kerner was in line for an expected vacancy on the 7th Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago. He has announced he will not seek a third term as governor.

"I have been serving with a pharmaceutical firm, and many men and women in all branches of government who deal with it," he said, "do not propose to forsake them. I shall be a candidate for re-election."

Proffer served for 20 years as the district manager of Missouri Utilities in Scott City, before coming to Sikeston. He was a councilman 14 years and served as mayor of Scott City three years before coming here.

He and his wife are members of the First Methodist church.

Tavern Fire Kills 12

MOBERLY, Mo. (AP) - Witnesses say a man entered a crowded tavern Friday, sloshed gasoline around, threw a lit match and ran out. Twelve persons were killed in a frantic attempt to escape the blast of flame.

Clifford Falzone, Randolph County prosecutor, said a murder charge would be lodged against William Edward Coleman, 36, an ex-convict who police said gave himself up at headquarters after the fire.

Police said the 12 victims piled up at the back door, which they couldn't open. Four persons—two men, a woman and her baby—got out the front door.

"I simply don't understand it," moaned the bewildered proprietor, Ray Curtis, who opened the small tavern just a week ago. "I thought Coleman was my friend."

In fact, Curtis said, Coleman helped clean up the place for the opening.

On the back bar was a list of 10 names of persons who could not be served in the tavern as patrons under Missouri law, Curtis said. All 10 are ex-convicts, and the law does not permit them to loiter in places serving liquor or beer.

Coleman's name was on the list, Curtis said, but Coleman knew it and understood why he couldn't be a patron.

The tavern was on the first floor of a building housing the old three-story, 30-room Randolph Hotel. The flames burned out the interior of the tavern and ruined eight hotel rooms above it.

Mrs. Vivian McSparran, who was sitting near the front of the bar, told fire Chief Leroy Willis that a man walked in carrying a five-gallon bucket of liquid.

"He walked to the middle of the tavern and started sloshing it around," Mrs. McSparran said. "He made a swinging arc, throwing the liquid all over the tavern. Then he threw a match into it and ran out."

Virgil Hill, 46, said he was on a stool next to Mrs. McSparran and his friend, Charles Buckler, 70. He said the blast caused the front door to stick.

"I grabbed the woman who had a baby about two years old with her, and we pushed against the door and finally managed to open it," Hill said. "Buck followed us out and we ran into the street."

Firemen said the back door opened inward and the victims apparently jammed up against it before it could be pulled open.

The fire chief said it took only five minutes to get the blaze under control and it was out in 45 minutes.

Prosecutor Falzone said Coleman had a long criminal record starting when he was 14 years old. He served terms in the state training school for boys, the state reformatory and the state prison for delinquency, car theft, felonious assault, burglary and forgery.

The police chief said Coleman had been working steadily as a laborer the last two years.

"I can't understand this," Curtis said. "That's what really shakes me up. The place has been known as a rough place, and I took it in hopes I could clean it up and make it work."

"I figured that in four or five months of slow business I could convince people that it was being run properly and business would pick up."

Curtis said he left the bartender, Mrs. Geraldine Settles, 53, in charge Friday afternoon while he went to a lumberyard to study plans for a house "my wife and I had been figuring on until this."

About two hours later, at the Eagles Lodge, he got a call about the fire.

"All those who died were good personal friends of mine," he said. "I couldn't believe it. That first call I got, the woman said, 'Your place is on fire and they've already brought out nine bodies.'"

Police Chief Wesley Slaven refused to disclose anything Coleman might have said.

"All I'm going to say is that he came in here and gave himself up," Slaven said.

Officers said Coleman escaped three times from the county jail in Huntsville, four times from the training school at Booneville, and once from the reformatory.

The list of dead:

1. Mrs. Geraldine Settles, 53, Moberly, the bartender.
2. Mrs. Ella Derboven, 57, Moberly.
3. Mrs. Ruby Derboven, 33, Huntsville.
4. George Dougherty, 55, Renick, Mo.
5. James F. Lowry, 42, Moberly.
6. Jerry Ronimus, 55, Moberly.
7. James Rockwood, 46, Moberly.
8. Clell Frederick, 50, Moberly.
9. Barbara Kribbs, 33, Moberly.
10. Elbert C. Smith, 45, Clarance, Mo.
11. Silas Crutchfield, 55, Fayette, Mo.
12. Albert Shull, 46, Fayette.

the youth, being tried as an adult, was charged with the slaying of Merrill Nichols, 64, a clerk at a Joplin, Mo., all-night grocery March 3, 1967.

Neil Fugate, foreman of the jury, said the final vote after four attempts ended with a 7-5 decision. All jurors indicated there wasn't any chance of altering the final judgments.

The decision ended four days of heated testimony on both sides.

A 23-year-old Gordonville man, Roy Kramawetter, was charged with leaving the scene of traffic accidents.

He is being held in the city jail.

Police at 1 a.m. today picked up the Gordonville youth after a 1967 Pontiac, driven by Dwain Boley, 40, Vanderuser, was struck by another car, causing the Boley car to leave on highway 61, 10 miles north of Sikeston.

Kramawetter was driving a 1965 Plymouth.

At 12:30 a.m. on route W, six miles west of Oran, a 1962 Chevrolet driven by Charles Glueck, 16, Chaffee was crowded off the road before it collided with another car which Kramawetter was accused of driving.

A flat tire on a 1965 GMC trailer truck, driven by Bud L. Isbell, 44, Kennett, on Interstate 55, at 2 a.m., three and one-half miles north of Benton, caused the truck to catch fire and be destroyed.

Two loaded hay trucks collided Friday at 11:50 a.m., six miles north of Sikeston on Highway 61.

A 1966 International truck, driven by Billy J. Hubbard, 33, St. Louis, lost hay from his truck when it was struck in the rear by a 1963 Ford pickup truck, driven by Henry Bruns, 56, route one, Oran.

Audrey McCutcheon, 27, Caruthersville, was injured last night at 11:15 p.m. on highway 84, one-half mile east of Hayti.

He received cuts and a possible fractured left leg, when his car ran off the road and struck a concrete wall. He was taken to the Pemiscot County Memorial hospital in Hayti and charged with careless and reckless driving while drinking.

The girl was abducted at a school bus stop Tuesday morning.

L. C. L. McKinnon of the State Law Enforcement Division said Martin also will be charged with the slaying of Mrs. Nancy Carol Parris, 20, and Nancy Christine Rinehart, 14, both of Gaffney.

Their nude, strangled bodies were found Feb. 8.

"I am satisfied he is the same man who killed the other two women," McKinnon said.

Managing Editor Bill Gibbons of the Gaffney Ledger was directed to the two bodies by an anonymous caller. The caller phoned a second time, saying he was a "psycho and might kill again." Residents lived in a state of fear after the calls.

The morning after the second call Miss Buckson, a Negro, was abducted. Martin is white, as were the two other victims.

Miss Buckson was stabbed twice in addition to being strangled. Officers said she apparently was killed shortly after the abduction.

The anonymous caller also mentioned the strangulation death last May of Mrs. Annie Lucille Dedmond, 34, of Forest City, N.C. Her husband, Roger Z. Dedmond, 27, was convicted of manslaughter and is serving an 18-year term.

Parma Asks Withdrawal From District

NEW MADRID -- A delegation from Parma R-3 school district presented the secretary of the New Madrid board of education Sam Bodine with a petition Friday requesting the Parma district be left out of the reorganization plan.

The petition states that its signers are residents of the Parma school district who are opposed to their school district being included in the proposed six-district school district R4 in New Madrid county.

The petition is signed by 625 persons representing about 90 per cent of the voters in the district. W. B. Morgan, Parma, said.

Morgan and a small delegation representing the Parma district delivered the petition to Bodine. At the time they also presented him with a letter drafted from an Aug. 14 meeting of the school board in Parma.

The meeting was attended by New Madrid political leader J. V. Conrad.

The letter states:

"The Parma School Board met Aug. 14, 1967, and unanimously voted to request that the boundaries of the Parma Reorganized School District No. 3 be excluded from the county reorganization plan."

"J. V. Conrad, in his discussion of the plan, made the statement that any school requesting it would be omitted."

"Our district is unique from the other school districts in the county in that almost 50 per cent of the district is in Stoddard county, and, therefore, the plan is very unpopular in our area."

"It is, also, felt by the board of education that we have from two to five years before the state reorganizes school districts into larger educational centers, and that more time should be given to a more detailed study of the plan as well as give schools a chance to decide for themselves which education center would better fit the needs of the people in the school district."

Letters Pour in on Music Teacher, 96

CHARLESTON -- Miss Kate Boone, the 96-year-old blind music teacher, basks in the warmth of a flood of letters from news spread across the nation about her life and career.

Since the Associated Press distributed a story in January about the aged woman, who thinks she may be the country's oldest music teacher, she has received more than 100 letters. The correspondence came from every state except Alaska.

Her place in the limelight gave especial significance to Valentine's Day when many former students as well as her 17 present music students remembered her with greetings.

She spends from 35 to 45 minutes with each of her students every week.

"The Associated Press must be a powerful media," she said. An error in the story was responsible for some of the outpouring of letters. People inquired about her father, the late Judge William Felton Boone, whose middle name was incorrectly spelled "Fenton" in the story.

Most of the letters were about her ancestry. She is a descendant of Kentucky Frontiersman Daniel Boone. The others congratulated her on her long musical career.

Charleston friends, Mrs. Moffat Latimer and Mrs. Robert DeLaney and others, read the letters to her and answered them. Miss Boone said that she mailed "a batch" of letters to her niece, Mrs. Paul Reese in Baton Rouge, La., who will answer them.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!
THE LONG VIEW FROM
DRAB MIDWINTER

On a gentle February morning -- such mornings as have softened our intermittent winter -- the whole eastern sky may be suffused with a pink glow. Reaching across the pale blue dome of the heavens, the rays of the still-hidden sun touch puffs of clouds, transforming them to pink cotton candy.

But the full light of day, heralded in such beauty, illuminates a dull landscape. In the city, lawns are tan and plantings are bleak. In the country, brown fields stretch away to the horizon. Trees along watercourses and hedgerows are dark columns supporting black fretwork. The occasional evergreen, furred with dark foliage, seems misplaced among the stark forms of its leafless companions. The horizontal lines of barbed wire fences are broken by weed stalks, some straight and tall, others aimless scrawls.

Farmsteads stand forlorn in the barren lands. A traveler notes that winding roads lead to them, but the main highway hurries past at a distance. In another day, a human habitation on these prairies was a rare and special thing. Roads were built to link settlers' homes; and later, railroads ran from town to town. But today most travelers are passing through, not arriving. Throughways and railroads bypass not only single farmsteads but whole towns, and with their approval. The road no longer comes to the man; the man goes to the road.

This condition is most evident when winter has stripped the foliage and leveled the fields, revealing the bare bones of the landscape. A man could be discouraged by the midwinter countryside. Only the fields of winter wheat are green; and this year drought has dulled their color and spotted them with the ban of bare soil.

But here and there, on mild days, farmers are plowing in preparation for spring crops, and their shares turn black furrows of rich earth.

By mid-February, the winter is more than half gone, by the calendar. And whatever of storm and cold the next few weeks bring, the long view is toward spring and a new season of growth.

Will the kindergarten take care of all of the pre-school age children? If so we will support it. If not, we are going to vote against it.

We want no discrimination and have the federal or state authorities step in and take charge of our school system.

Let's have the answer school board members and in writing please.

LABOR AND WAGE RESTRAINT

The executive council of the AFL-CIO, which opens an eight-day meeting at Bal Harbour, Fla., on Monday, Feb. 19, probably will not look kindly on President Johnson's recent plea for wage restraint in 1968. In fact, the council anticipated Johnson's appeal in a December 1967 report which stated: "If the President determines that there is a national emergency to warrant extraordinary stabilization measures -- with evenhanded restraints on all costs, prices, profits, dividends, corporate executive compensation, as well as employees' wages and salaries -- he will have the support of AFL-CIO."

Experience shows that voluntary price and wage controls do not work for long, if at all. The President's Council of Economic Advisers, in its 1962 annual report, set forth "guideposts" which pegged wage and price increases to industrial productivity. For three years, 1962-64, negotiated wage increases remained within the 3.2 per cent limit recommended by the council. But then the average increase shot up to 3.8 per cent in 1965, to 4.5 per cent in 1966, and to 5.6 per cent in 1967.

The council warned in its 1968 annual report that there would be "no prospect" of slowing the rate of inflation this year unless wage settlements were "appreciably lower" than those of last year. However, current trends point to wage and fringe benefit boosts of 6 per cent or more in major industries.

Between June 1 and Election Day, union contracts are due to expire in the steel, aerospace, aluminum, railroad, coal mining, ship building and East and Gulf Coast maritime industries. A strike in any of these key fields would hinder the war effort. But any attempt by the federal government to curb strikes or limit wage settlements would damage President Johnson's chances of re-election.

Happily the short lived strike of the Missouri Pacific Railway has ended but the memory of vandalism and sabotage lingers.

This wasn't much different than any railroad strike in which there is a long record of sabotage for which union leaders always disclaim responsibility.

Union leaders always deny any knowledge of violence yet they maintain such firm control over the men that none or almost none of the men report to work after a strike is called.

They maintain effective discipline where they desire it.

A. E. Smith, chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen's Grievance Committee, in St. Louis said that trainmen are not guilty of numerous acts of sabotage while freight trains were manned by supervisory personnel.

Smith apparently arrived at this conclusion because, he said, "they had specific instructions that violence of any type will not be tolerated."

This is an old, old story.

The union leaders always deny their members are responsible for violence but there always are rashes of violence during a strike that don't occur normally.

Union officials may or may not have incited their members to violence.

They may have looked the other way when it occurred.

There may be instances where they publicly deplore it or warn against it while secretly encouraging the membership to take the law into their own hands.

Just how union leaders know that their members weren't involved in sabotage is puzzling.

If they weren't present when the sabotage was committed how would they know who did it?

But their approach to acts of sabotage, vandalism, property damage, even of physical violence, is not much worse than peace officers, who usually look the other way then themselves when men go on a rampage during a strike.

A strike usually is an open season for violating the law.

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Battle smolders between J. Edgar Hoover and his former assistant; FBI wants to monopolize all training for city police; international police chiefs disagree with Hoover.

NEW OAS CHIEF
Last March Drew Pearson went to South America and talked to ex-president Galo Plaza Lasso of Ecuador about running for secretary-general of the new Interim organization of the American States. He was reluctant. Pearson also talked to state department officials about the importance of making a strong man with United Nations diplomatic experience, which Galo Plaza has, head of the OAS.

This resulted in the hottest drive for the OAS secretary-generalship in history. Last week, after six ballots overwheled over three months, the ex-president of Ecuador Galo Plaza was elected.

WASHINGTON -- It hasn't made headlines, but a bitter feud is smoldering between J. Edgar Hoover and the former No. 3 man in the FBI, Quinn Tamm. Mr. Tamm is now executive director of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, and, in view of the government drive to clean up crime, the feud is important. It has contributed to Hoover's clandestine efforts to understand his boss, Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

Mr. Tamm grew up in the FBI, as did his brother, Judge Edward Tamm. Both became assistant directors, and Edward Tamm was promoted to the U.S. district court, then to the U.S. Court of Appeals, where he has served with distinction. Many considered his brother Quinn as the probable heir to J. Edgar Hoover when Hoover retired. Hoover is now 73 and past the mandatory retirement age, but has been retained by executive order of President Johnson.

One of Tamm's jobs in the FBI was to act as liaison between it and the International Association of Chiefs of Police, for which the FBI does a certain amount of police training. In 1960 the international chiefs of police offered Tamm the job of executive director, and Tamm accepted. Before doing so, however, he asked the police chiefs whether in his new job he would be under the thumb of the FBI. The answer was no.

Tamm has taken this literally. Not only is he not under the thumb of the FBI, but he has been battling the FBI regarding certain of its policies, especially its political operations. He has been so vigorous that the FBI has ruefully branded Tamm as replacing Pat Murphy as the FBI's No. 1 enemy. Murphy, formerly in the justice department, is now public safety director of the District of Columbia and considered one of the top crime experts in the nation.

FBI AND POLITICS
Tamm's chief row with his old boss came when the FBI went over the head of Hoover's boss, the Attorney General, to lobby on Capitol Hill to amend the safe-streets bill to provide that the FBI do all police training for American city police. Attorney General Clark argued that the FBI was already overloaded with work; second, that police training by the FBI would create a national police force contrary to American tradition. Clark wanted the FBI to do some specialized training of city police, but not all.

Despite this, and despite the fact that the FBI is supposed to keep out of politics, Hoover sent two of his special agents to Capitol Hill to make the rounds of key senators.

When Quinn Tamm heard of this, he not only spoke out publicly against his old FBI boss, but sent a letter to Sen. John McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the subcommittee drafting the anticrime legislation. Tamm put the international Association of Chiefs of Police officially on record as against Hoover's plan to "centralize police training in the hands of the director of the FBI," which, Tamm said, "could become the first step toward a national police."

Hoover reacted vigorously. He sent out an air-telegram from the FBI Telex to all special agents asking them to contact board members of the International Association of Chiefs of Police and line them up against Tamm in order to oust him at the next IACP board meeting. Simultaneously Hoover began suggesting other police chiefs to replace Tamm as executive director.

At this point, Leonard Lawrence of Hamilton, Ontario, president of the IACP, came to Washington. He called on Hoover's alleged boss, Attorney General Clark, and informed him of the efforts to undermine Tamm. Lawrence asked Clark if he

THE PEOPLE BOXES
SAN ANTONIO, Texas -- Within a flintlock shot of the storied Alamo and overlooking the soon-to-be-opened Hemis Fair there is one of the most exciting buildings ever constructed in America.

It is the new 20-story Palacio del Rio Hilton hotel, which will go from first-spade to completion in just nine months. And it carries a portent for the future that is both intriguing and a little frightening. For it consists of little else than a huge stack of what might be described as "people boxes."

EARLY last summer it became apparent to the leaders of San Antonio that they wouldn't have rooms enough to house the hoped-for 7.2 million visitors to their $156 million exposition which opens April 6. A large new hotel was desperately needed, but the fair would be over before the estimated 18-month building time elapsed.

The only possible solution was a radical new construction process. The inspiration was Habitat 67, the stepped-back futuristic apartment buildings put up at fabulous cost on the perimeter of the Montreal world's fair. But the concept had to be refined, for a commercial hotel must pay its bondholders. A daring San Antonio architectural firm, Cerna and Garza, and a group of structural engineers, Feigenbaum and Pinnell, undertook a building revolution.

THE Palacio is undoubtedly the only modern building in America the plans of which weren't completed until three months after work had begun. Excavation got under way on July 3, and work started on the conventionally built lower floors which will house the lobbies, restaurants, shops and meeting rooms. Shortly thereafter the box factory was born.

Eight miles from the site 115 men labored at a reinforced concrete casting yard to produce each "monolithic module" which contained the hotel bedroom, bathroom, closets and balcony. As soon as the concrete set, each was moved to a finishing yard where another 140 men applied vinyl wall coverings, laid rugs, installed plumbing and placed the furniture. Each room unit weighed 37 tons.

MEANTIME, back at the site, a 72 x 22-foot elevator core was completed to a height of 238 feet

The daughter said: "But, Mother, isn't that pampering him?"

The mother said: "Maybe, but you find a lot of small change between the cushions that way."

Boyd, predicted at its annual meeting in San Francisco, Calif., that the U. S. consumption of natural gas would approximately double in the next two decades. Mr. Boyd said the natural gas, which accounts for more than one-third of the nation's energy needs, is today the leading sources of energy in the United States.

Mr. Boyd, who is chairman of the board of El Paso Natural Gas Co., told a news conference that approximately 18.8 trillion cubic feet of natural gas will be consumed in the U. S. this year. Next year, he said, estimated consumption will be on the order of 19.7 trillion cubic feet.

By 1990, according to the industry's best estimates, requirements in the U. S. will reach an estimated 36 trillion cubic feet, he said.

Mr. Boyd called attention to the fact that pipeline industry efforts to keep costs at a minimum have enabled maintenance of low rate structures despite upward pressures exerted on prices by inflation and higher money costs.

He said that few, if any, of the nation's other industries have exercised greater ingenuity in research and new technology aimed at providing lower prices for consumers.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS! THE LONG VIEW FROM DRAB MIDWINTER

On a gentle February morning -- such mornings as have softened our intermittent winter -- the whole eastern sky may be suffused with a pink glow. Reaching across the pale blue dome of the heavens, the rays of the still-hidden sun touch puffs of clouds, transforming them to pink cotton candy.

But the full light of day, heralded in such beauty, illuminates a dull landscape. In the city, lawns are tan and plantings are bleak. In the country, brown fields stretch away to the horizon. Trees along watercourses and hedgerows are dark columns supporting black fretwork. The occasional evergreen, furred with dark foliage, seems misplaced among the stark forms of its leafless companions. The horizontal lines of barbed wire fences are broken by weed stalks, some straight and tall, others aimless scrawls.

Farmsteads stand forlorn in the barren lands. A traveler notes that winding roads lead to them, but the main highway hurries past at a distance. In another day, a human habitation on these prairies was a rare and special thing. Roads were built to link settlers' homes; and later, railroads ran from town to town. But today most travelers are passing through, not arriving. Throughways and railroads bypass not only single farmsteads but whole towns, and with their approval. The road no longer comes to the man; the man goes to the road.

This condition is most evident when winter has stripped the foliage and leveled the fields, revealing the bare bones of the landscape. A man could be discouraged by the midwinter countryside. Only the fields of winter wheat are green; and this year drought has dulled their color and spotted them with the ban of bare soil.

But here and there, on mild days, farmers are plowing in preparation for spring crops, and their shares turn black furrows of rich earth.

By mid-February, the winter is more than half gone, by the calendar. And whatever of storm and cold the next few weeks bring, the long view is toward spring and a new season of growth.

LABOR AND WAGE RESTRAINT

The executive council of the AFL-CIO, which opens an eight-day meeting at Bal Harbour, Fla., on Monday, Feb. 19, probably will not look kindly on President Johnson's recent plea for wage restraint in 1968. In fact, the council anticipated Johnson's appeal in a December 1967 report which stated: "If the President determines that there is a national emergency to warrant extraordinary stabilization measures -- with evenhanded restraints on all costs, prices, profits, dividends, corporate executive compensation, as well as employees' wages and salaries -- he will have the support of AFL-CIO."

Experience shows that voluntary price and wage controls do not work for long, if at all. The President's Council of Economic Advisors, in its 1962 annual report, set forth "guideposts" which pegged wage and price increases to industrial productivity. For three years, 1962-64, negotiated wage increases remained within the 3.2 per cent limit recommended by the council. But then the average increase shot up to 3.8 per cent in 1965, to 4.5 per cent in 1966, and to 5.6 per cent in 1967.

The council warned in its 1968 annual report that there would be "no prospect" of slowing the rate of inflation this year unless wage settlements were "appreciably lower" than those of last year. However, current trends point to wage and fringe benefit boosts of 6 per cent or more in major industries.

Between June 1 and Election Day, union contracts are due to expire in the steel, aerospace, aluminum, railroad, coal mining, ship building and East and Gulf Coast maritime industries. A strike in any of these key fields would hinder the war effort. But any attempt by the federal government to curb strikes or limit wage settlements would damage President Johnson's chances of re-election.

Happily the short lived strike of the Missouri Pacific Railway has ended but the memory of vandalism and sabotage lingers.

This wasn't much different than any railroad strike in which there is a long record of sabotage for which union leaders always disclaim responsibility.

Union leaders always deny any knowledge of violence yet they maintain such firm control over the men that none or almost none of the men report to work after a strike is called.

They maintain effective discipline where they desire it.

A. E. Smith, chairman of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen's Grievance Committee, in St. Louis said that trainmen are not guilty of numerous acts of sabotage while freight trains were manned by supervisory personnel.

Smith apparently arrived at this conclusion because, he said, "they had specific instructions that violence of any type will not be tolerated."

This is an old, old story. The union leaders always deny their members are responsible for violence but there always are rushes of violence during a strike that don't occur normally.

Union officials may or may not have incited their members to violence.

They may have looked the other way when it occurred.

There may be instances where they publicly deplore it or warn against it while secretly encouraging the membership to take the law into their own hands.

Just how union leaders know that their members weren't involved in sabotage is puzzling.

If they weren't present when the sabotage was committed how would they know who did it?

But their approach to acts of sabotage, vandalism, property damage, even of physical violence, is not much worse than peace officers, who usually look the other way themselves when men go on a rampage during a strike.

A strike usually is an open season for violating the law.

Unions, like other pressure groups, have little incentive to obey the law during a strike.

Their leaders can issue pious denials far from the scene absolving the membership and no one tries to stop them at the stone.

Management picks up the tab and adds it to operating costs.

Ultimately the general public must pay for it but the public is not a pressure group and the idea that consumers have any rights is a new one that really hasn't taken root either with union leaders or peace officers.

Lawrence asked Clark if he could attend the next board meeting of the chiefs of police. Attorney General Clark then called Hoover's right-hand man, Deak Deloach, a member of the IACP board, and told him: "If you say anything against Tamm at the next board meeting, I shall be compelled to speak out myself."

Clark was as good as his word. Two days later he did attend the board meeting of the chiefs of police. He was not required to speak out, however. Deak Deloach had heeded his warning and did not urge Tamm's approval. The question of support for Tamm was raised, however, and he received an overwhelming vote of confidence from the police chiefs.

J. Edgar Hoover lost this round in the bitter battle between him and the former no. 3 man in the FBI. However, the battle is continuing.

Everyone is anxious that congress adjourn early this election year -- the President, the vice president, the speaker, and Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader.

President Johnson did his part with an off-the-record pep talk to Mahon and his committee colleagues.

CLEAR MEANING
A MAN CONFIDED to his friend that life was empty: "The woman I love has just refused my proposal of marriage."

"Well, don't let that get you down," comforted the friend. "A woman's 'no' often means 'yes'."

"She didn't say 'no'," was the answer, "she said 'phooey'."

Sam came into work and was in terrible shape. His head was cut and bruised and bleeding. "Sam, what on earth happened to you?" a co-worker asked.

"Oh, my girl friend and I had a big fight and I called her a two-bit street walker. She hit me over the head with a sack of quarters."

Our Unabashed Dictionary defines will as a dead giveaway. One of my boys is 6 feet 3. Give him a haircut, and he's 5 feet 8.

The teacher asked her Sunday School class how Noah spent his time on the ark. The tots seemed baffled. "Do you suppose with all the water around him he did a lot of fishing?" she asked.

"Hah!" one redhead piped up. "With only two worms?"

A mother was giving her about-to-be married daughter some tips: "The first thing you learn is to meet your husband as he comes home from work, sit him down in an overstuffed chair, take off his shoes, pull him forward and upward so that his feet rest on a high footstool and give him the evening paper."

The daughter said: "But Mother, isn't that pampering him?"

The mother said: "Maybe, but you find a lot of small change between the cushions that way."

JIMMY'S VALENTINE
National Teamsters Brush Off Hoffa's Birthday in Prison; Pros- per Despite Chief's Long Absence

Washington, D.C. -- The Friday Flyer, a newspaper with a truly captive audience, did a rave review of a performance the other day -- namely that of No. 33298, code number for a chap who resides right smack in its limited circulation area -- the Lewisburg Federal Penitentiary.

Since 33298 is Jimmy Hoffa, it is fascinating to read that he held the crowd "spellbound" with a 45-minute oration on automation, cybernetics, poverty, the need for a guaranteed income "and what will happen in the year 2,000 if we don't get with it."

So the word is that as "Jimmy H." rounds out his first year in prison he's doing what comes naturally -- speaking, debating, advising his new rank and file, becoming theoretician and big brother to a lot of young convicts.

He spent his 55th birthday in the big "walls of St. Valentine's Day" -- mostly forgotten by all but his family, a few lawyers and some fellow who write speeches for the Brotherhood's acting president, Frank Fitzsimmons.

It's a different "Jimmy." He doesn't lose his temper -- neither in the big clothing hall, nor while grinding up old mattresses, nor when sorting shoes sent in by the Leavenworth footwear division of Federal Prison Industries, on the board of which sits AFL-CIO President George Meany.

It is a strict 40-hour week and Hoffa, the $2,000-a-week Teamsters president on involuntary leave, has lots of time to read in his one-man, 8 by 10 foot, cot and commode-fitted cell.

He has devised his own effective intelligence system. Thus he knows what's happening inside the sprawling Teamsters union -- and its officers know what he's thinking and wanting.

Regardless of what they say publicly, most Teamsters leaders privately could not care how principle, however, is preless.

They're doing very well without Hoffa. And it's the code of the jungle he built and stocked that will offer four or five sizes of rooms that can be mixed and linked together in private home designs of considerable variety. And our apartment buildings could be honeycombs, rising cell-by-cell.

If this does prove feasible, the building codes of many cities must be changed. A building code has only three excuses -- the insurability of safety, durability and sanitation. Make work and featherbedding will be looking for that tall pile of cubes having reported a membership of 1,875,903, and are now working close down on the twisting San Antonio River could be a pattern of the future by which more Americans could live better for less.

MEANTIME, back at the site, a 72 x 22-foot elevator core was completed to a height of 238 feet

Eight miles from the site 115 men labored at a reinforced concrete casting yard to produce each "monolithic module" which contained the hotel bedroom, bathroom, closets and balcony.

As soon as the concrete set, each was moved to a finishing yard where another 140 men applied vinyl wall coverings, laid rugs, installed plumbing and placed the furniture. Each room unit weighed 37 tons.

Boyd, predicted at its annual meeting in San Francisco, Calif., that the U. S. consumption of natural gas would approximately double in the next two decades. Mr. Boyd said the natural gas, which accounts for more than one-third of the nation's energy needs, is today the leading source of energy in the United States.

Mr. Boyd, who is chairman of the board of El Paso Natural Gas Co., told a news conference that approximately 18.8 trillion cubic feet of natural gas will be consumed in the U. S. this year. Next year, he said, estimated consumption will be on the order of 19.7 trillion cubic feet.

By 1990, according to the industry's best estimates, requirements in the U. S. will reach an estimated 36 trillion cubic feet, he said.

Mr. Boyd called attention to the fact that pipeline industry efforts to keep costs at a minimum have enabled maintenance of low rate structures despite upward pressures exerted on prices by inflation and higher money costs.

He said that few, if any, of the nation's other industries have exercised greater ingenuity in research and new technology aimed at providing lower prices for consumers.

Psychologists report that being in danger limits your ability to see and blunts your other senses. But they don't come right out and say whether they're talking about crossing the street or falling in love.

A fourth grade teacher received a telephone call one morning. The husky voice on the line said, "Will you please excuse Johnny from school today? He has a cold."

The teacher asked, "Who is this?"

"This is my father," Betcha Didn't Know ... Work is anything we do for pay, while recreation is anything we pay for doing.

Ivan Demetrius and Mischa Petrovitz were standing on a street corner watching an infantry regiment marching by. "Do men grow upward or downward?" asked Ivan, absently.

"Why, downward, of course," replied Mischa.

"How do you know, Mischa?" asked Ivan.

"Because," replied Mischa, "once when I outgrew an overcoat it became too short for me at the bottom."

"No, Mischa," replied Ivan, looking out at the marching soldiers, "men grow upward."

"Why do you say that, Ivan?" "Because," said Ivan, "you will see that our comrades marching out there are all even at the bottom but uneven at the top. And then the argument got hot."

JIM WALLACE

DEMOCRAT FOR CONGRESS

A man who will represent all the people and not just a few. Here is a man who knows the first step in the art of Friendship is being a friend. Then making friends take care of itself. . . Jim . . . by being a friend to himself. . . being true to his highest and best and by aligning himself with the enduring values of human life that makes for growth and progress. He strives. . . "like the shadow of a great rock in a weary land" . . . to be a source of refuge and strength to those who walk in darkness. Jim Wallace believes in the inherent goodness in men and in their potential greatness. . . He treats men in a big spirit, expectant of a noble response. Always striving to lift people up, not cast them down, to encourage. . . not discourage. . . to set an example that will be an inspiration to others. He is sensitively responsive to the dreams and aims of others and shows sincere appreciation for the contributions others make to the enrichment of his life. . . Jim practices the companionship of silence and the magic words that his speech may build and not destroy, help. . . and not hinder. Wallace closes his eyes to the faults of others and opens them to his own. A man who is himself, done with hypocrisy, artificial and pretense. Meets and mingles with people in quiet simplicity and humility and does not attempt to reform or reprimand. . . only serving to make others happy if he can. He is a tolerant man. . . has an understanding heart of forgiving nature. Knowing that all men stumble now and then, and that he who never made a mistake never accomplished anything. A man that joins hands with all people who are for a great principal, great purposes and great causes. . . puts his shoulders to the wheel to help achieve common goals. . . Jim Wallace will go more than half way with his fellow men. Greeting others first and does not wait to be greeted, always radiating a spirit of overflowing goodwill. . . This man Wallace knows that all are human targets and magnets, that like attract like and that what we give we receive. While Jim Wallace recognizes that no man knows all the answers, and that each day he should add to his knowledge of how to live the friendly way. Let's elect Jim Wallace to Congress!

Bulldogs Flex Muscles

By PAUL ELLEDGE
CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The name of the game was basketball. The place was Cape Girardeau. The winner was the Sikeston Bulldogs. Sikeston took its third consecutive victory last night on the shooting of Gary Wiss and Fred Townes.

Townes was the pacemaker for the Bulldogs with one of his best performances. He drilled in 39 tallies for the third time in succession he has paced the Bulldogs. Wiss came in second with 22.

The Bulldogs shot their way out front by six points to lead, 29 to 23, at the end of the first quarter. In the second period the running, rebounding and shooting game of the Bulldogs paid off again. In the second period the Bulldogs ran, rebounded, and shot to a 16-point lead over the Tigers, 58-42. After the intermission the Bulldogs started all over again where they left off by outrunning, out-rebounding, and outshooting the Tigers. They gained a 19-point lead, 82-63. In the fourth period the Bulldogs coasted to victory.

Three players fouled out in the last period, one from Sikeston and two from Cape Girardeau. Gary Wiss fouled out in the fourth after having a good night by making nine field goals and four free throws.

Roger Beaudean fouled in the last quarter with eight field goals, eight free throws, and 24 total points while his teammate, Bob Brune, fouled out in the same quarter with a total of 10 points, four field goals and two free throws.

The big man again for the Bulldogs was big, six-foot, two-inch, hustling Townes. Townes made 10 field goals, nine free throws, numerous rebounds on both the offensive and defensive boards, and only four fouls. Every scorer ended in double figures. Dennis Snelling topped 14, Carl Barnett 16, Art Jackson 14 and Bruce Farris 10. Four of these boys will be back next year -- Townes, Dennis Snelling, Art Jackson and Bruce Farris. Proctor got 14, Gary Call made 12, Steve Scherer tallied 10 and Bob Brune swished in 10. In the junior varsity bout the Tigers rolled over the Sikeston Bulldogs, 97-71. Randy Wulferus paced the Tigers with 30 points. Donald Sims made 12 points for the Bulldogs.

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- The name of the game was basketball. The place was Cape Girardeau. The winner was the Sikeston Bulldogs. Sikeston took its third consecutive victory last night on the shooting of Gary Wiss and Fred Townes.

Townes was the pacemaker for the Bulldogs with one of his best performances. He drilled in 32 tallies for the third time in succession he has paced the Bulldogs. Wiss came in second with 22.

The Bulldogs shot their way out front by six points to lead, 29 to 23, at the end of the first quarter. In the second period the running, rebounding and shooting game of the Bulldogs paid off again. In the second period the Bulldogs ran, rebounded, and shot to a 16-point lead over the Tigers, 58-42.

After the intermission the Bulldogs started all over again where they left off by outrunning, outrebounding, and outshooting the Tigers. They gained a 19-point lead, 82-63. In the fourth period the Bulldogs coasted to victory.

Three players fouled out in the last period, one from Sikeston and two from Cape Girardeau. Gary Wiss fouled out in the fourth after having a good night by making nine field goals and four free throws.

Roger Beauden fouled in the last quarter with eight field goals, eight free throws, and 24 total points while his teammate, Bob Brune, fouled out in the same quarter with a total of 10 points, four field goals and two free throws.

The big man again for the Bulldogs was big, six-foot, two-inch, hustling Townes. Townes made 10 field goals, nine free throws, numerous rebounds on both the offensive and defensive boards, and only four fouls.

Every scorer ended in double figures. Dennis Snelling topped 14, Carl Barnett 16, Art Jackson 14 and Bruce Farris 10. Four of these boys will be back next year -- Townes, Dennis Snelling, Art Jackson and Bruce Farris.

The Tigers had five boys score in double figures. Roger Beauden led them with 24, David these numbered 77. Today the total nears 100, but your contribution is still required to meet the critical need for centers in other parts of the country.

THE BUDGET

President Johnson's estimated budget for fiscal 1969 forecasts an $8 billion deficit providing Congress enacts his requested 10 per cent surtax. Without the tax, receipts would fall short of the estimated $178 billion and the deficit would be increased. Actual spending during fiscal 1968 has exceeded the President's January 1967 estimate. The new budget calls for a $10.4 billion increase over the adjusted 1968 budget, all but $300 million of it accounted for by increased spending for war or additional outlays required by laws already on the books.

BOOT FASHIONS ARE ADVANCING in all directions this season. Soft, vinyl, waterproof boot by Cambridge (left) spells the best in high styling. Hug-me-tight maxiboots (right) to wear with the miniskirt zip up as far as they can go. These are tall girl boots by Nina. Both boot fashions are lined in Herculan olefin fiber for warmth and moisture resistance.

70 Told of Irrigation Methods

A group of 70 farmers turned out at a Holiday Inn dinner meeting to hear George Black, Tampa, Fla., explain irrigation methods. He is an irrigation engineer. A second speaker was Harold B. Lott, branch manager of a manufacturing company in Memphis.

The meeting was sponsored by Smitten-Writers Irrigation company.

"In today's world we are short on market, labor and money," Black said, "and we must get the most from our planted crops. All three basic crops of cotton, corn and soybeans, have about the same irrigation period, the cotton starting with its bloom to the middle of August, and the other the same length.

"It's getting the water down the row quickly and evenly that counts, and unless this is done. Unless you have a three-inch moisture base over the entire portion, your plant life will suffer. A homemade thin three-foot rod will do to probe into the ground.

"Keep a rainfall record with rain gauge and you will know how much water the plants will need," Black said. "All three crops can be irrigated with the same unit if you have enough pipes and water. "Your overhead sprinkling system can do the same for you, if you don't try to spread your water too far. It must soak into the ground at the rate of one-half inch per hour for six hours for best results.

Lott narrated a film on modern machinery and crop growth capacity by opening the throttle, it'll only double your fuel expense."

Woman Says Don't Toss Away Youth

Dear Ann Landers: I've made so many foolish mistakes in my life that I feel the one decent thing I can do now is warn other girls against throwing away their youth like I did.

I am only 21 but I've seen more of the crummy side of people than most women who are 60. Here is my story: When I was 14 I quit school to get engaged to a serviceman who was being transferred. My mother begged me not to, but I was sure she only wanted me home so I could do her housework.

My fiancé was shipped overseas and I began to run around. I fell for a man who was 10 years older than I was, divorced and a gambler. When he asked me to marry him I jumped at the chance. Eight months later I gave birth to twin girls. They were premature and died before they were two weeks old.

I thought the best way to get over the heartbreak was to have another baby right away. My little boy was born 11 months later. My husband refused to stay home. He said the baby's crying made him nervous. On our wedding anniversary he skipped town and left me with $2.80.

I was 16 years old, had already buried two little girls and was left with an infant son to support. I won't go into the next four years because they were so horrible. I'm ashamed to put the words down on paper and besides, I don't think you could print it. Somehow I survived. Now I am living with a lovely older couple. The woman takes care of my boy while I work. I am stopping getting back my self-respect and am determined to get an education and raise this son of mine to be a good citizen.

Please, Ann, keep telling your readers that youth is precious and once it is gone it can never be recaptured. Teen-agers belong in school and they belong at home. I was never young and I mourn those lovely days that I missed. — ROSANNA

Dear Rosanna: Your story is a sordid one but your ability to get out of the gutter and make a decent life for yourself is the real moral here. My hat is off to you, young lady.

Dear Ann Landers: Every once in a while my husband says something that aggravates me, or maybe I say something that aggravates him. Anyway, we do have arguments occasionally but, good Lord, what married couple doesn't?

Last night Ben came home for dinner and I noticed he didn't have his hat on. All I said was, "Where's your hat, Ben?" He replied, "I left it in the restaurant where I ate lunch." This is the third hat Ben has lost in the last 18 months and I got a little sore about it.

The next-door neighbor had come over to return my flatiron just as Ben walked in the door. She stood around to listen to the argument and before I knew it she was expressing herself as if somebody had asked her. She said, "My husband loses things, too, but I never say a word!"

Well, Ann, the little argument got to be a big fight, something that would not have happened if the neighbor lady had kept her big nose out of it. Now I am madder at her than I am at Ben. What is your opinion of this? — LOVE THY WHAT?

Dear Love: Real friends don't hang around when they see a family fight brewing. They leave. And this is what the neighbor lady would have done if she were a person of good judgment.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

"Egg Tooth"

An "egg tooth" is a hard little nub at the end of the soft beak of the young bird. It uses this tooth to break the shell of the egg so it can get out. The egg tooth breaks off soon after the bird is hatched.

Announcement. I have purchased the Marshall Place from Ed Wilson and will continue the business under the name of Hardy's Lunch Room, 109 Front street, Hardy Williams.

E. J. Van Horne left Tuesday morning for his home in Auxvasse, Mo., where he expects to engage in farming this coming season. Mr. Van Horne had for several years been principal of the Sikeston High School and coach of the athletic teams. Before his departure the high school pupils presented him with a gold ring with Masonic emblem and the boys of the athletic teams with a gold handled knife as tokens of their high esteem for him.

Public School notes. The second year class in domestic science is making middy blouses. A cyclone passed over this part of Southeast Missouri Tuesday morning doing considerable damage at various points. Sikeston escaped with little damage. At the Southeast Missouri Fair grounds 12 stalls in the horse sheds were completely blown away and eight other stalls were unroofed.

Morehouse -- Mrs. Mamie Hunter, who is 79 years old, is critically ill. The Sikeston boys displayed poor basketball at Caruthersville and lost their game to that team last Friday night. The score was 25-12. The girl's team defeated the Caruthersville sextet in a game that was uninteresting most of the time. The score was Sikeston, 36, and Caruthersville, 14. Sanford Sherry, formerly of Arkansas, has rented the Brorin farm near Crowder and has moved into it. The former renter of this farm, Turner Hartley, has moved to Vanduser.

The Sikeston High School boys' basketball team returned last Tuesday from Caruthersville where they won two of three games to take third place honors in the invitation tournament held there that day.

Wakefield, the reconstructed birthplace of George Washington in Westmoreland County, Va., is a national monument. The original house was destroyed by fire and no description of it was to be found. A colonial house was built there, but no claims are made for its authenticity.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job. (James 5:11) PRAYER: God, Thou who art patient with our human weaknesses and shortcomings, bless our efforts toward patience and endurance. Make us kinder and more forgiving. Help us bear in others the frailties we expect them to forbear in us. We ask in the name of Christ, whose love exceeds our human understanding. We pray as He taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven... Amen."

As we all know, the mentally retarded can only make baskets and other simple objects.

Like:
Computer subassemblies.
Printed circuits for electronic test sets.
Electric meters.
Automobile instrument panels.
Aircraft components.
Hospital supplies.
You already know that the retarded worker is generally more conscientious, loyal and punctual than the average employee.
Perhaps you have a few "simple" jobs he might do in your business.

For information about employing the retarded, write The President's Committee on Mental Retardation, Washington, D.C. 20201.

Governors Adopt Ozark Resolution

TOPEKA (AP) — The govern- The governors' resolution not- nora of Kansas, Missouri and ed that "within the Ozarks re- Oklahoma adopted a resolution gion some areas are eligible for Friday calling for all areas in planning assistance and grant- the Ozark region to be eligible in-aid administrative support for federal funds for economic development through the Economic Develop- ment Administration while oth- ers are not.

The governors took the action after being told that only "de- pressed" counties in the Ozarks region were eligible for some $2.5 million to $5 million in fed- eral grants.

Govs. Robert Docking of Kan- sas, Warren Hearnes of Missou- ri and Dewey Bartlett of Okla- homa received the word at a meeting of the Ozarks Regional Commission, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas did not attend because he said the Ar- kansas Legislature was nearing adjournment.

The federal co-chairman of the commission, William Mc- Candless, told the governors that only those counties designated by the Economic Development Administration as depressed are eligible for supplemental grants. He added that this designation recently had been lifted from many counties, particularly in Missouri.

"Sound planning," the resolu- tion added, "would indicate that funds for these purposes be- channelled through the regional commission and that all areas within the region be eligible."

Hearnes said he would try to start new projects in Missouri at counties still designated de- pressed in an attempt to com- pensate for loss of federal funds in other counties.

It was noted that federal mon- ey will be unavailable after June 30 and that most agencies al- ready have committed their money for the current fiscal year.

Hearnes also was told that no planning grant money would be available from the federal gov- ernment for regional develop- ment districts.

At a news conference, Dock- ing said an agreement on a re- ciprocal sales tax between Okla- homa and Kansas is expected by July 1.

Publisher's Wife Dies

DE SOTO -- Mrs. Lewis W. Roop, a native of Cape Girar- deau county and member of one of its old established families, the wife of the publisher of DeSoto's two weekly newspapers, died Thursday night at a St. Louis hos- pital.

Mrs. Roop succumbed to a heart condition after an illness of two weeks. She had undergone gall bladder surgery.

Mrs. Roop was born April 28, 1907, at Friedheim, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August C. Dick- man. The family moved to Jack- son in 1912, which remained her home until she began teaching school.

The family farm is three miles west of Jackson.

After graduation from the high school at Jackson, she attended Stephens College in Columbia and then Teachers College in Cape Girardeau, receiving a bachelor's degree in educa- tion.

She began elementary teaching in Crystal City. She and Mr. Roop, who then was with Pitts- burgh Plate Glass Co. in Crystal City, were married on Aug. 1, 1935, at Jackson.

In 1942 when they acquired the newspaper here they moved to De Soto and she was associated with her husband in the business.

Subsequently Mrs. Roop re- turned to education as a librari- an at Crystal City and then at De Soto, and did graduate work in library science at Washington University and State College, Cape Girardeau.

She was librarian at the high school at the time of her death and was a member of the De Soto library board. Mrs. Roop was a member of Redeemer Lutheran Church, the American Association of University Women, Delta Kappa Gamma, women's hono- rary society in education, P.E.O. Sisterhood, the De Soto Business and Professional Women's Club and the Louisiana Purchase Chap- ter of the Daughters of the Amer- ican Revolution.

She is survived by her hus- band; a daughter, Mrs. Larry M. Ray, Tokyo, Japan, a son, Pvt. Wade Roop, Fort Dix, N.J.; two brothers, Dr. E. T. Dickman, and Alvin Dickman, Jackson, and an aunt, Mrs. Her- bert Sachse, Jackson.

The funeral will be Monday at 2 p.m. at the Redeemer Lutheran Church by the pastor, the Rev. David N. Ylvisaker.

If You Were The Judge Woman's Legs Held to Have No News Value

Leggy Peggy was disembarking from an airplane with a group of other passengers when a rascally gust of wind lifted her skirt well above her waist. While the incident might have been glanced over with no more than a few appreciative whistles, a magazine photographer happened to be shooting pictures at the time for an article pertaining to activities at the airport. And, as fate would have it, one of the pictures used showed Peggy, with her skirt above her waist, wearing a pair of polka-dot panties.

Seeing the picture, red - faced Peggy sued the publisher of the magazine for damages.

"I've never been so embarrassed in my life," she complained to a judge. "After all, a girl's panties are a private matter, particularly when she's wearing them."

"Nonsense," was the publisher's answer. "We didn't single her out. She was part of a group in a public scene. As a magazine that publishes articles of public interest, with news value, we had every right to print the picture. It showed a real life scene at an airport."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the magazine pay for printing the picture?

This is how the judge ruled: Yes! He held that it would be illogical, wrong and unjust to hold that one who is involuntarily and instantaneously enmeshed in an embarrassing situation forfeits her right of privacy merely because she happened at the moment to be part of a public scene. What's more, concluded the judge, there was nothing of legitimate news value in the picture.

Governors Adopt Ozark Resolution

TOPEKA (AP) — The governors of Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma adopted a resolution Friday calling for all areas in the Ozark region to be eligible for federal funds for economic development.

The governors took the action after being told that only "depressed" counties in the Ozark region were eligible for some $2.5 million to $5 million in federal grants.

The governors' resolution noted that "within the Ozark region some areas are eligible for planning assistance and grant-in-aid administrative support through the Economic Development Administration while others are not."

"Sound planning," the resolution added, "would indicate that funds for these purposes be channeled through the regional commission and that all areas within the region be eligible."

Hearnes said he would try to start new projects in Missouri in counties still designated as depressed areas in an attempt to compensate for loss of federal funds in other counties.

It was noted that federal monies will be unavailable after June 30 and that most agencies already have committed their money for the current fiscal year.

Hearnes also was told that no planning grant money would be available from the federal government for regional development districts.

At a news conference, Docking said an agreement on a reciprocal sales tax between Oklahoma and Kansas is expected by July 1.

EARLE STANLEY GARDNER STANDS BEHIND POLICE

HONOLULU (AP) — Earle Stanley Gardner, Perry Mason's creator, says he feels policemen should get better pay.

"And I don't mean just in folding money but in appreciation and cooperation," Gardner, 78, said in an interview on his arrival here aboard the liner Mariposa.

"We need better public support of the police and obedience to the law," he added. "There is too little of this right now."
